CANDIDATES

In Popularity Contest Are Now Hustling For Votes For Themselves.

Heretofore They Have "Been in the Hands of Their Friends."

Many Evidences That Vote Will Be Heavier Than Was Expected.

IS NOW DRAWING TO THE CLOSE

The candidates in the popularity contest now have but a very short time to go among their friends to solicit votes. It is said to be a fact that most of the votes received up to this time have come to the candidates unsolicited. This is quite complimentary to those on the list and they ought to feel grateful to their friends and admirers for the partiality shown to them. No doubt their friends will continue to work to the very last day and hour, but the time has arrived for the candidates themselves to take a deeper interest and not allow their friends to do all the work. As predicted by the admirers and friends of the Kentucky Irish American, the vote will be much larger than the management of the paper expected at the outset. This was demonstrated in a particular and striking way during this week, when the subscription list was swelled by several hundred new subscribers, all to be credited to this or that candidate. As announced last week, the standing of the various candidates will not be published any more until the close of the contest, when the names of the successful ones will be announced by the committee appointed to count the votes. We violate no confidence in observing that there were some surprises in the vote cast this week. Some of the candidates who have not figured very prominently in the list up to this time have come to the front with great strides. If this continues next week the favorites, unless they be holding in reserve their vote, will not be in it at the close. Some of our old subscribers are sending in two and three years' subscriptions each in advance, asking that the votes to which they are entitled be credited their favorites. Those who have headed the list of contestants, however, are still confident and will not rest from now until the final vote is polled. The friends of the young lady contestants have been particularly active this week and many hundreds of votes have been sent in to be credited to them. Evidently the young gentlemen friends of the young ladies have gone to work in earnest for them. The young ladies are deserving of many more votes than they have received up to this time. They are all amiable and pretty girls. The married couples contest is not lagging behind and the vote has been quite heavy. As heretofore observed, the single gentlemen can take care of themselves and they are out hustling in real earnest. A friend of one of the single gentlemen in the contest says he will get 100 new subscribers before July 4 for the Kentucky Irish American and have the votes credited for his favorite. If several of the single men would get out and hustle like the one mentioned the result would be in doubt until the last vote was polled. The members of the police and fire departments, nearly all of whom subscribe for the Kentucky Irish American, are beginning to take interest in the contest for their friends, both single and married. Members of various labor organizations are also taking a hand. This paper has a large circulation among the union labor people, but until now they have, as a class, taken but very little interest. Business men are also showing more interest, as many of the retail merchants have friends in the list. One Main-street merchant sent in ten new subscribers, the votes to be credited to one of the married couples, and another sends in five to be credited to one of his young lady friends in the popularity contest. As we go to press on Friday the votes were high up into the thousands. Mike Reichert's friends have organized for the final struggle, Ben Speaker, Harry Veeneman, Frank Lenz and several others having taken charge of his campaign. But the friends of John Hennessey are not resting. They declare the man from Limerick must win at all hazards and are putting up a game fight. These two are nip and tuck and the race is so close that the last subscription received may determine the winner.

This has been a busy week for the supporters of Frank McDonough and Lieut. Tom Fitzgibbon, and the winner will have won a contest of which any man might feel proud. Both candidates have a big following, and as both are experienced politicians it would be wise for the Kentucky Irish Americans to make any prediction as to the outcome. An enormous vote will be recorded for both of them. Tom Camfield and Edward Dalton have moved their positions, their friends sticking to them with a loyalty that is commendable. This is a race that may yet develop startling surprises.

Entering the home stretch Misses Ella O'Connell, Mamie Riley and Mary Foley are closely bunched. The others in the young ladies' division have received a handsome vote, but the contest has narrowed down to the three named. Their friends are watching closely and every move of the candidates is noted. But the young ladies are keeping their own counsel, which causes the suspicion that they yet have a card up their sleeve. Ballots and subscriptions for them have been received from Colorado, Indiana, Vermont, New York, Missouri, Tennessee and many cities and towns throughout Kentucky. This is a pretty race indeed and promises an exciting finish.

Remember that the contest will soon be ended, therefore do not delay in sending in your subscriptions and ballots.

LIKES HIS NEW HOME.

The Kentucky Irish American has received a letter from William T. Meehan, who recently removed to Paris, Mo., to engage in the tobacco business. Mr. Meehan is enjoying excellent health and says Paris is the center of a glorious country, but deeply deplores the fact that there is no Catholic church in the town. He also says he hopes the day may not be far distant when there will be more priests and the present state of things is due.

SUCCESSFUL

Close of Another Remarkable School Year at St. Xavier's College.

Fifteen Bright Young Men Are Graduated With Honors.

Robert Abell and Jerome Driscoll Win Highest Honors.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES DELIVERED

The closing exercises of St. Xavier's College for the school year of 1904 on Wednesday night, held in the College Auditorium, brought an immense crowd together. The year has been the most successful one in the history of the institution, and the Xaverian Brothers have reason to feel proud of the record their pupils made. For the occasion of the commencement the assembly hall was beautifully decorated, and the interesting programme was carried out to the satisfaction of all concerned. On the platform with the Very Rev. Louis G. Deppen, chaplain of the college, were many of the local clergy.

The alumni address was delivered by Mr. John J. Cassilly, the well known official court stenographer, of the class of 1882. It was an eloquent and sensible oration and elicited attention. At the conclusion of the address Mr. Cassilly presented the alumni medal for general excellence to Jerome J. Driscoll. One of the features of the evening's exercises was an oratorical contest between the members of the graduating class. It was led by Edward J. Bush with a speech on "Ideals." Cornelius J. Lane spoke of "Catholic Literature in Catholic Homes." Mr. Lane paid a fitting tribute to the Catholic press and its opportunities for doing good. S. Parnell Barrett's theme was "Patriotism," which he handled well and received much applause. Mr. Barrett's effort was pronounced by many to be one of the best of the evening. A vocal class sang in concert, "The Mellow Horn," which was rendered with excellent effect. The class was made up of young boys who have good voices.

Clifford J. Flynn had for his subject "America's Open Door," in which he traced the history of the United States from the time of the explorations of Father Marquette to the present day. The address was replete with interesting information and Mr. Flynn's delivery was all that could be desired. The speaker was generously applauded at many points. A duet was excellently rendered by Newman J. Hoertz and Henry G. Hill.

The final speech, "A Retrospect," was delivered by Robert A. Abell, the valedictorian. He gave a history of the college since its beginning, recounting the good work which it has accomplished. Incidentally he referred to the great Archbishop Spalding, who in the early history of the Commonwealth established schools and colleges in Kentucky which have since been successfully maintained by his successors. The speaker paid a high tribute to the Xaverian Brothers. At the close Mr. Abell was presented with the gold medal.

The last address of the evening was made by the Very Rev. Louis G. Deppen, who also spoke of the work of the college and the devotion of the Brothers. Father Deppen then presented the medals and prizes to the graduates.

The musical part of the programme was of a very high order and much enjoyed by the large audience. It included solos, duets and a chorus of 150 voices, together with the instrumental music, which was very fine.

The large audience left the college delighted with the performance, and Brother James, the Superior, and his associates were congratulated on all sides.

The fifteen graduates are as follows:

John Clifford Flynn, Cornelius John Lane,

Ambrose Joseph Scheweers, Victor Bernard Rademaker, Jerome Joseph Driscoll, Bernard Albert Morthorst, Thomas Walter Keely, Stephen Parnell Barrett, Eugene Michael Ford, Firmin Nippert Bosche, Edward Michael Shaughnessy, Robert Albert Abell, Francis Guy Aud, Marcus Michael Doerhofer and Edward John Bruch.

THOUSANDS

Spend a Most Enjoyable Evening With Their Hibernian Friends.

Gathering at Phoenix Hill Park Did Honor to Irish Race.

National Airs, Dancing and Bowling Contests Were Features.

FIELD DAY SPORTS COME NEXT

Phoenix Hill Park was the scene of a gay and brilliant gathering last Monday night. It was the occasion of the first picnic given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians in the city for a number of years. For the past three years the Hibernians have contented themselves with a field day and excursion to Fern Grove, which have become famous, but this year, recognizing the fact that variety and change is a necessary quantity in the desire of their friends and followers, the County Board decided to lead off with an evening's outing this summer. Though the weather was somewhat threatening, car after car was unloaded at the park and trooping in came thousands, until the vast place was thronged with a happy selection of the fathers and mothers, sisters and sweethearts of members of the order and their friends. Should any doubt exist as to the question that our Irish-American girls hold the palm for loveliness and beauty, it should have been dispelled by a single glance at the immense ball room, which was the center of attraction for the young people. Out in the park Prof. Morbach's band gave an open air concert, playing many pleasing Irish selections. And here and there everywhere were old acquaintances renewing former friendships and talking over the old days or telling stories of the fairs they attended in Ireland. There were about 3,000 people present, and everybody felt at once they were in the midst of patriotic and hospitable people.

For the good order and pleasant time enjoyed by all too much credit can not be given to the faithful committee of the County Board, who worked unceasingly for the benefit of the Ancient Order and their thousands of friends. Conspicuous at all points were County President Sullivan and Messrs. Joe Dougherty, Joe Lynch, Tom Lynch and Joe Cooney, who were successful in making this outing something to be always remembered with pleasure.

The bowling alleys were kept going all the evening, prominent among the players being John and Tom Barry and Frank Burke, of this year's Kentucky Irish American team, and Con Ford, Lieut. Tom Fitzgibbon, John Kenney, Mark Morris, Thomas Garry, Dan Mullen, Officer James Twohill, Denny Coleman, Tommy Keenan, Martin Sheehan, Joe Cooney, Will Connolly, Will Hennessey, Patrick Sullivan and Patrick Welsh, who were divided into teams, but so evenly were they matched that the games resulted in a draw. The contest that aroused the greatest excitement was between Joe McGinn, State Secretary of the Catholic press in the Eastern press, and the Hibernians, and James Ross, the well known Limerick grocer. Ball after ball was rolled without advantage to either and the excitement of their friends was high. But Ross had a card up his sleeve. When it came to the last frame McGinn bowled first, and when it was seen that Ross must make a strike with his last ball the friends of McGinn were wild with excitement, believing the Limerick man not equal to the task. This was where they were mistaken, however, for Ross, after a careful poise, let the ball go as if from a catapult and down went all the pins, winning the game for him by one pin. Then it was his friends' turn to shout, and some say they could be heard in Portland.

The American Bishops took it as a reflection upon themselves, and Cardinal Gibbons, as their spokesman, indignantly denounced the memorial as an unwise interference with the national order of things and an entirely uncalled for emanation of a clique whose utterances only gave enemies another opportunity of pointing out the Catholic church most unjustly as a foreign growth in the republic. The Holy See finally rejected the petition. The revival of the Cahensley agitation is said to be of Polish origin. The Poles are very numerous in this country and some of their priests most ardently desire a Bishop of their own nationality. They are devout Catholics, as a rule, but many squabbles have arisen here between pastors and congregations. These, it is said, can never be satisfactorily settled except by a Polish Bishop. Representations have been made to Rome recently on this question by an American attorney acting for a Polish priest stationed at Buffalo. It is just possible that Cardinal Satolli may examine the subject at close range before returning to Europe.

Whatever may be the nature of Cardinal Satolli's mission, and however much he may deny it, he is universally regarded as the personal representative of the Holy See, and the result of his visit's effect at Rome upon the church here will be awaited with deep interest. Whatever may be the true object of Cardinal Satolli's visit, optimists profess to believe that it will be of benefit to him and to the church in America. They feel that he can not help being impressed with the magnificent condition of the church here, and that any prejudices he may have imbibed since his last stay in this country will be overcome by a personal inspection of the true condition of affairs.

Cardinal Satolli is declared to be still a power of the first magnitude of Rome, popular belief in America to the contrary notwithstanding. The impression has gone forth that his star declined with the death of Leo. As a matter of fact, he worked vigorously for the election of Cardinal Sarto, who owes his elevation to the fact that he is a quiet and safe outgoing.

TIMELY WARNING.

Rev. Father Henry A. Connolly, pastor of St. Brigid's church, this city, preached an able warning sermon to his flock last Sunday morning. Father Connolly cautioned his people against promiscuous river excursions and picnics, which abound in physical as well as moral dangers. When there is no special reason, he said, for attending river excursions, it would be far wiser for fathers to take their families out to one of the parks or some pretty spot in the country and there enjoy a quiet and safe outing.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. John H. Hennessey, wife of John Hennessey, the well known L. & N. railroad foreman, sustained a painful accident while about her household duties on Thursday afternoon of last week. While coming out of the door she slipped and fell on the steps, spraining her hip and knee and at the same time sustaining other body bruises from the fall. Mrs. Hennessey has the heartfelt wishes of many friends for a speedy recovery.

OUR ANNIVERSARY NUMBER.

The Kentucky Irish American will issue an anniversary number on July 2. It will be a publication well worthy of sending away to friends, as it will contain special articles on topics of interest to Kentuckians and Catholics generally.

This edition, more particularly on account of the popularity contest now going on between many estimable people, will have a very large circulation throughout the city and State. It will go into nearly every Catholic family in Louisville.

Advertisers should not overlook this anniversary edition. The Kentucky Irish American reaches a class of people who read with care, and merchants and others should cultivate their patronage through its columns. It is a better medium of advertising than through some of the daily papers to reach a particular class. Our old advertisers should insert larger ads in this edition, and many who have not heretofore taken advantage of these columns should do so on this occasion.

CATHOLIC EDUCATION.

The commencement season is now about concluded in the various educational institutions in Kentucky. The graduates have made their farewells and the pupils who will graduate in future years have returned to their homes for vacation. Kentucky, the first of the States admitted to the Union, may not be as far advanced in material progress as some of her sister States, but she takes high rank in the educational line. This is particularly true of the Catholic church in Kentucky. Its educational institutions rank among the best in the whole country. Ninety-two years ago the Friends of Mary at the Foot of the Cross, now popularly known as the Loretto Society of Sisters, was founded, and in the same year (1812) the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth were established by John Baptist David, Co-advisor Bishop of Bardstown. These two religious communities now number between seven and eight hundred religious each, and have branch academies in many States of the Union.

The Sisters of Charity of Nazareth have a delightful mother house not far from Louisville, in Nelson county. Their annual commencement always attract large attention, though some of the branch academies in other parts of the country have a larger patronage. The Sisters of Nazareth have reason to feel proud of their work in Kentucky, and the same may be said of the Sisters of Loretto.

In all that goes to make up the finished education of a young woman the opportunities afforded by the Sisters of Nazareth and of Loretto can not be excelled anywhere in the Union. Catholics can point with pride to their venerable educational institutions, which have accomplished so much for Kentucky and for the Catholics of the whole country.

In the matter of education for boys the Kentucky Catholic institutions are not behind other States. We have in Louisville the Xaverian Brothers, established in 1854, and at Gethsemani the college conducted by the Trappists, where boys can secure a good education. Last, but not least, we have in Louisville excellent parochial schools in nearly all of the thirty-two congregations where boys and girls can obtain a good education at small cost.

Kentucky Catholics can point with pride to her Catholic colleges, both male and female. Some of them date back to the very foundation of the Commonwealth. The great missionary priests who came here when the Dark and Bloody Ground was a wilderness early took steps to provide educational facilities for the young, and the foundation laid by them has been productive of good. There is reason to believe that the future is even brighter than the past for all the Catholic educational institutions in Kentucky. When the academies and colleges open again in September may they have larger patronage than ever is the wish of the Kentucky Irish American. The devotion shown by the Sisters and the others having charge of the schools is to be commended.

CHANGING THE TAX LAWS.

The city officials are now considering the important matter of changing the tax laws so as to collect a license tax from merchants and manufacturers instead of an ad valorem tax, as at present. The change in the tax law was asked for by the manufacturers and merchants "in order to encourage industry, etc." Of course the merchants and manufacturers were not altogether prompted by unselfish motives in asking this change in the law, but we will concede they were honest in believing that the new system might help along manufacturers. The ad valorem system is the fairest method of taxation, if the assessments are equitably made, and they are so made in Louisville by Assessor Murphy. Under a license system in former years merchants and manufacturers paid little or no taxes in proportion to the amount of property they owned and the amount of business done by them. If the city of Louisville is to return to this policy, the sooner the General Council kills the proposed ordinance changing from ad valorem to license the better it will be. The proposed ordinance ought to be published before it is sent to the General Council and discussed by the public. If it is equitable it should be passed, but not otherwise. There is no reason why the poor man who owns a little cottage and nothing more should be made to pay ad valorem taxes, or in other words, full value, and allow the merchant and manufacturer, with millions, to escape with a small license tax.

It is a dangerous thing for the city to change its taxing laws anyway, and it will take years to get the courts to interpret them. The city of Louisville should go slow in this matter. Main street does not own the whole town.

CARDINAL SATOLLI'S VISIT.

The Washington correspondents, for want of something else to write about, have sent out dispatches that the real reason Cardinal Satolli is now visiting the United States is to confer with President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Taft about establishing a nunciature in Washington City.

Few Catholics believe these stories about the Vatican being desirous of establishing official relations at Washington with an envoy from Rome the same as in Catholic countries. The separation of church and State in this country is too firmly established to warrant the belief that the Pope would make such a request, and it is doubtful if an official representative from Rome would have as much influence as the eminent Catholic clergymen and laymen who from time to time now call the attention of the President to the rights of the church and of Catholics. Now more than ever, since the taking over of the Philippines with its 6,000,000 or more Catholics, the authorities in Washington have good reason to consult the church dignitaries, but it does not follow that there should be a nunciature in Washington. That Cardinal Satolli will have important business with the President and Secretary of War there is hardly a doubt, but he will hardly ask that official diplomatic relations be permanently established between Rome and the United States. The Pope and the Cardinal know the traditional policy of the United States on this subject probably as well as the Washington correspondents. It is doubtful if a nunciature would be of benefit to the church in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. James Shelley and family left this week on a visit to Hamilton, Ohio, where they will be the guests of relatives.

Peter M. O'Reilly, the well known real estate and insurance man, was among those from this city spending the week at West Baden Springs.

Miss Mary Gill, one of the brightest little girls in New Albany, was awarded two gold medals at the closing exercises of Holy Trinity parochial school.

Miss Mayme O'Neill, of 939 Dumesnil street, will leave next Friday for Birmingham, Ala., to spend two months with her cousin, Miss Mayme Sullivan.

M. J. Deely, of Chicago, has been visiting here during the past week at the guest of his nieces, Mrs. Michael Baldwin and Miss Maggie Deely, of Eighth and Oldham street.

George Bitter, of 1014 Campbell street, is wearing a beaming countenance these days, all on account of the arrival of a pretty little girl at his home. Both mother and child are doing well.

Henry Bell's many friends will be glad to see him again at the Court House. Some weeks ago he met with a painful accident and was unable to leave the Gray-street Infirmary until this week.

After the Cardinal's visit to the President doubtless some announcement will be made of the real purpose of his call upon the Washington authorities.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION.

There seems to be no doubt now that the American Federation of Catholic Societies will be formed on the lines originally mapped out by Bishop McFaul and Bishop Messmer, of Milwaukee. At first the plan met with some opposition, as all innovations do, but now the wisdom of the movement has become so apparent that nearly all opposition has been withdrawn.

Under the proposed regulations the societies will be as independent for local action as they are now, while there will be united action on national and general topics. Pope Pius has approved a federation on similar lines in Italy.

The Kentucky Irish American struck the popular chord in its Tebeau article last week.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS

Arranging to Go to the Big World's Fair Next September.

The Entertainment Committee of the local Catholic Knights of America met Tuesday night to hear reports regarding their excursion to the World's Fair for Catholic Knight day, September 13. President Reichert presided, and when Secretary Mann called the roll there was a response from nearly all the branches in the Falls Cities. Quite an amount of correspondence was read, and all of such an encouraging character that it was at once decided to give the excursion, the entire cost to be only $15. This will secure three days at the American Hotel, just opposite the entrance to the fair, with meals included, and will give many the opportunity they have been longing for to see the big exposition. The Knights of St. Louis and World's Fair Management are working hand in hand in arranging for Catholic Knights day. Later full details of the trip will appear in these columns.

FINE RECORD

Made by Tom Scally During the Time He Has Been Labor Inspector.

Thomas J. Scally is making a fine record in the position of State Labor Inspector, to which place he was recently appointed by Gov. Beckham. Although he has been in office only a few months, he has inspected over 150 factories and is still at work. Mr. Scally is devoting his attention particularly to the enforcement of that section of the law which prohibits the employment of children of tender years in factories. It is to be regretted that there are some parents who try to assist the factory owners in evading this wholesome law by giving false information about the ages of their children in order that they may earn a pittance in the factories. There are employers, too, who are willing to hire mere children in violation of the law. The attention of the grand jury has been called to this by Inspector Scally, and it would not be surprising if several indictments were returned against the violators. The Inspector can be relied upon to do his duty in the premises. Although Tom is full of fun and of music, he does not fail as a public official.

WATER COMPANY

Must Pay City Taxes Like All Other Public Institutions.

The highest court in the State has decided that the Louisville Water Company must pay city taxes because it is not directly managed by the city and is a separate corporation, though all of the stock is owned by the city. The Water Company has been furnishing water to all of the city institutions free of charge, and its officers claim that the water bills will more than offset the amount of taxes which the city can hope to collect from it. The decision of the court in this matter may lead to changes in the management of the Water Company, which has been freely criticized for years, whether justly or unjustly. The tax bills against the Water Company were placed on the books by City Assessor Murphy, and it was held at the time that he was without authority to place the bills against the company, but he did his duty fearlessly. City Attorney Stone vigorously prosecuted the case in the Court of Appeals and won the suit for the city. It is said the effect of the decision will be far reaching.

IRISH SPORTS

Ancient Olympian Games at St.
Louis During A. O. H.
Convention.

Week of July 17 Set Apart For Events Not Heretofore Seen
in This Country.

Interesting Programme Is Prepared by St. Louis Irish Societies.

WILL ATTRACT MUCH ATTENTION

Irish athletics and Irish games will hold sway in St. Louis from July 17 to July 24 inclusive. During the same week the national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will be held. The week's programme will be in charge of John J. O'Connor, President of the Western association of the A. A. U., and a prominent man in Irish circles. The athletic sports will be inaugurated
July 17, with an open handicap meet, under the auspices of the St. Louis Hibernians. The events to be contested will be open to the world and will be as follows: Hundred-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, one-mile run,
running high jump, running broad jump,
putting sixteen-pound shot, throwing fifty-six-pound weight and two scratch events, a sack race and a three-legged race. There will also be a tug of war contest and a 100-yard dash for boys. These games will be contested on the old St. Louis Fair Grounds, and beautiful prizes will be awarded the winning athletes.

Among the events carded for July 17 is the running hop, step and jump. In former years this event was quite popular in all athletic circles, but for some unknown reason was dropped. With the revival of the event by the Irish societies
they expect to once more place the event
on the championship programme.

Beginning July 20, the physical culture department of the World's Fair will inaugurate its programme of Irish sport, and the games will continue without intermission until July 23. No professions will be allowed to participate in the sports and all athletes must be registered with the A. A. U. On the first day, July 20, the events will be 100-yard dash, putting forty-two-pound shot, running two hops and a jump, 440-yard hurdle race,
Irish jig competition and running high jump.

The programme for the second day,
July 21, will consist of a 220-yard dash, three standing jumps, throwing the fourteen-pound weight, half-mile run,
Irish horn-pipe, throwing fifty-six-pound
weight for distance.

The third day, July 22, will witness the one-mile run, running high jump, putting sixteen-pound shot, throwing fifty-six-pound weight, unlimited run and follow, rising and striking the hurling ball.

Saturday afternoon, July 23, will mark
the close of the carnival at the Stadium,
and the games will be 120-yard high hurdles, running long jump, throwing sixteen-pound hammer, unlimited run and follow, throwing the javelin and throwing the fifty-six-pound weight for height.

After the Stadium sports close the Irish Nationalists will bring the big tournament to a close with a monster athletic meet on the old Fair Grounds. This organization will present the same events that the Hibernians have drawn up, and as a special inducement for new world's record will present to the athlete who breaks a record in any event a costly diamond medal. As can be seen from the events that have been selected for the carnival, the meet consists of distinctly Irish sports, especially so in the weights.
Throwing the forty-two-pound stone is practically unheard-of in America and was first presented at the Greater New York Irish A. C. last summer, together with throwing the javelin and the fifty-six-pound weight, with unlimited follow. Rising and striking the hurling ball is a new event to Americans.

At all the Stadium games beautiful gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the men who finish first, second and third in each event. At the games of the Hibernians and Nationalists gold medals will be awarded the winners in each event and second men will be presented with trophies in accordance with the value of the first prize. The entries for the games at the Stadium close July 2 with James E. Sullivan, department of physical culture, St. Louis Exposition.

The events for the Hibernian meet, July 17, close July 9 with J. J. O'Connor, 2718 Thomas street, and those for the Nationalists with Mr. O'Connor July 18.

The week devoted to Irish sports is second only to that of the Olympian games from an athletic standpoint.
Some of the best athletes in America will compete at these games, including Flannigan, Jim Mitchell, Harry Hillman and teams with the big Irish athletic clubs in New York City. Athletes will compete in the games representing San Francisco,
Chicago, New York, Boston, St. Louis,
New Orleans and various other cities throughout the United States. There is also a possibility of Albert Flaw, the giant hammer thrower of the Pacific coast, again meeting his rival, John Flannigan. The latter is very anxious to meet Flaw in order to try and wipe out the defeat he sustained at the Stadium
several weeks ago.

JUBILEE.

The Rev. Father Ogle, the popular pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's church, jubilee tomorrow week. His parishioners tingly observe the important event.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

Now for the field day.

Division 1 meets Tuesday night. There will be some interesting reports.

Hats off to the two star bowlers at the picnic Monday evening—Jim Ross and Con Ford.

There were sixty-eight names on the charter list of the division recently instituted at Savannah.

Capt. Jerry Hallahan, who has been engaged in railroad construction, came to attend the picnic. The old Knights were all glad to see him.

Milwaukee Hibernians will enjoy an outing to Waukesha next Saturday. Their annual picnic will be held at Schlitz Park
Saturday, August 13.

Arrangements have been completed by the county officers for the organization of another division in Trenton, N. J., making eight in that city.

San Francisco divisions will this year
have great Fourth of July celebration,
for which arrangements have been completed for several weeks.

The Picnic Committee deserve a rising vote of thanks from the four divisions for the successful manner in which they performed their duties from start to finish.

Last Monday night at Utica a large number of candidates received the first and second degrees and were accepted into the order, becoming members of Division 2.

The picnic Monday night impressed one as being a big family gathering, every one knowing each other and the best of fellowship prevailing all through the evening.

The meeting of Division 3, postponed from Monday night, will be held next Wednesday night, when there will be an initiation. All Hibernians will be welcome at this meeting.

At an interesting meeting of the County Board at Utica, President Keenan presiding, every division in the county being represented, the members pledged themselves to bring about the re-election of State Secretary Farley. The board decided to hold a union picnic on the lines of last year.

Last Sunday week was a great day for the Irish of Kellogg, Minn. A Ladies' Auxiliary was organized and officers elected and the degrees were conferred on the members of the new Hibernian division. State officers and others were present and in the evening dinner was served to all the members and visitors.

The Ohio State convention will meet at Youngstown, August 9, continuing three days. The Cincinnati Telegraph says this will be the greatest outpouring of Hibernians ever witnessed in Ohio, and the Mahoning Valley divisions will do themselves proud in the effort to make the stay of the visitors a memorable one.

BATH BRIEFS.

Never bathe when overheated.

Never bathe when exhausted and feeling ill.

Do not prolong the bath beyond a reasonable time.

Wait more than two hours after a meal
before bathing.

In cold weather one should not go out
for some time after hot bath.

Delicate people had better not bathe
until several hours after breakfast.

The temperature of water for a cold bath should range from 32 to 65 degrees.

If you are chilly and a cold bath
makes you shiver it is not the best sort for you to take.

Dry the body quickly, using a dry bath
brush or Turkish towel to stimulate circulation.

Opinions differ as to the relative merits of a cold or a hot bath. Neither kind will do for all. The individual constitution must be consulted.

HIGHEST FUNCTIONS OF WOMEN.

Home making and child training are the two highest functions of a woman.
The best training is usually done in a servant home, for self-reliance is one of the greatest factors in a child's education.

The woman who does her own work finds out the essential things in home making, and is not led astray by that temptation to meaningless luxuries and decorations which vulgarize so many American homes today. The fact is that servants are always a complication in home life, and the more servants there are the more complicated it becomes.
Some of us demand this complication, some of us can do without it. But it is ridiculous to assume that it has anything to do with the real essential ideals of home making. With or without servants the ideal home is always possible to the capable home maker, and practically, in

CONFIRMATION

Bishop D. O'Donaghue Visits
Holy Trinity and Compliments Its Pastor.

Right Rev. Bishop O'Donaghue, of Indianapolis, confirmed a class of seventy-five children and adults in Holy Trinity church, New Albany, on Sunday morning, in the presence of a large congregation. The Bishop was assisted by the Rev. John B. Kelly and Rev. Father Kenney, assistant rector of the church. Preceding the ceremony of confirmation the Right Rev. Bishop explained in his usual concise way the importance of the ceremony and the obligations resting upon those who received the sacrament. Bishop O'Donaghue is a great favorite at Holy Trinity, and every one in the congregation turns out when he comes to town. He is one of the most lovable clergymen in the whole country. Holy Trinity congregation is in a flourishing condition, and Father Kelly was complimented by the Bishop for his good work. The Bishop and Father Kelly were schoolmates while studying for the priesthood.

IN SCOTLAND

Irish is the Language of the Highland People as a Rule.

There are a great many people who are not aware that Irish (Gaelic) is the language of the Highlands of Scotland. The Highlands were, of course, peopled from Ireland and they paid tribute to the Irish kings until St. Columba pleaded for their freedom and had it granted. The Gaelic revival movement is spreading in Scotland also. The Scotch in Canada have Gaelic newspapers and have had such for a long time. The Highlanders and the Irish differ in that the former use English characters, whereas the latter stick to the original characters in their literature, writes Seumas MacManus in the New York Sun.

Scotch representatives dressed in national costume come to our great annual Gaelic festival, the Oireachtas, and on the other hand delegates from our Gaelic League attend the Highland Mod. Our Celtic cousins, the Welsh and Bretons,
send representatives also to our Oireachtas.

Although Donald is zealous and enthusiastic about his Gaelic tongue,
which he believes none but good Highlanders speak, he was right heartily displeased with the minister that preached to him in Gaelic and in praise of the Gaelic language, and who said that Gaelic was the language of Adam and Eve in the Garden.

People thought this should have flattered Donald's national pride, but it was far from doing so. "What gar'me be sea vexed wi' the meenister," said the angry Donald, "is that if Adam and Eve spoke Gaelic in t' Garden the de'il maun
then haen't been a Hieland man."

This season's demand for Wash Suits seems to surpass all previous years, at least this is the conclusion that WE have come to, because we are selling an enormous quantity; in fact, our sales have been so progressive that our buyer has made a hurried trip to the Eastern markets. To detail these sacrifices it will be necessary for our customers to know that these suits have recently been received and they comprise all that is new and up to date.

Cann is a man after whom our youth might wisely pattern. Not only his Irish-American friends and old-time associates, but the general public, feels proud of him who started in the foundry, but today does honor to his race and city as Judge of the Police Court. In his rulings he is impartial and just, and therefore can hold his honored office as long as he desires.

ROBINSON CRUSOE.

Paris Correspondent Says the Original Was an Irishman.

Was Robinson Crusoe an Irishman? A Paris correspondent of a Pittsburg paper says there is a place not far from the French capital where respect is paid to the memory of Robinson Crusoe. When Daniel Defoe wrote the delightful book which has fascinated generations of the world's population it is extremely doubtful that he ever intended to make a Frenchman of his legendary hero. It will probably come as news to his admirers to learn that Robinson Crusoe, after his rescue from the desert isle, returned to a village called Sceaux, about seven miles from Paris, and became an innkeeper.

Local tradition has it that Robinson Crusoe brought with him and planted, or rather replanted, in his garden, the original tree in which he slept on the night of his shipwreck on the island. Indeed the inhabitants still point out with pride the tree and the house in which Crusoe lived. There is, however, some confusion as to the exact spot, owing to three innkeepers in the village claiming to possess the original tree. There are also spurious trees called "Robinson Crusoe trees," which have been set up by other innkeepers in the place with a view of attracting customers. Indeed Sceaux, as the village has come to be called, is full of innkeepers, for it has become a favorite resort for Paris students and for Parisians generally who live on the south side of the Seine river.

It appears that toward the end of the eighteenth century, probably about the period of the French Revolution, an Englishman, whose name was Robinson, settled at Sceaux, and in some extraordinary manner the report got about that Robinson had traveled much and had met with many remarkable adventures. It was rumored that Robinson had even taken part in the war of independence on the side of the colonists, and that he would be hanged if he went back to England. This was enough to make him an object of sympathy to the people in the neighborhood, and so many folks came to listen to his stories of adventure that Robinson soon engaged in business as an innkeeper. He married and had numerous progeny. Judging from the appearance of some of his descendants and the flow of ready wit which they possess, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the original Robinson must have been an Irishman, with the gift of oratory peculiar to his race.

YOUNG WIVES SHOULD KNOW.

Necessities should be selected before decorative articles of furniture.

It is always decidedly cheaper in the end to buy only good carpets and furniture.

No matter how good the income, a small sum should be put aside regularly for the proverbial rainy day.

A simple dinner well served is decidedly more enjoyable than an elaborate dinner poorly served.

A practical knowledge of "economy of good cookery" will be absolutely necessary for the young housewife, no matter how much "help" she can afford to keep.

All bills for marketing should be paid weekly, or better still, when the articles are bought.

With care and economy a small amount of money will do wonders.

It is important to be systematic in looking after the leftovers.

All cold vegetables and scraps of meat may be used in soups and salads and croquettes and many appetizing ways too numerous to mention.

ONE'S CLOTHES AND ONE'S WORK.

Wherever a marked personal care is exhibited for the cleanliness of the person and for neatness in dress there is also almost always found extra carefulness as regards the finish of work done. Work people whose personal habits are slovenly produce slovenly work. Those who are careful of their own appearance are equally careful of the look of the work they turn out. And probably what is true of the work-room is equally true of the region behind the counter. Is it not the fact that the smart saleswoman is unusually particular about her dress, is averse to wearing dingy collars, frayed cuffs and faded ties? The truth of the matter seems to be that extra care as regards personal habits and general appearance is, as a rule, indicative of a certain alertness to slovenliness of all kinds.

IRISH: ROAST EACH OTHER.

The Archbishop of Glasgow in his address at the Connaught reunion in the City Hall, in warning Irishmen against the danger of disunion, told a story of Dr.

Johnston which evoked much laughter. Boswell once asked the doctor: "How is it you always speak ill of Scotland and never of Ireland?" Johnston replied: "The answer is this: You Scotchmen are joined in a conspiracy to make little of everyone else and to make much of yourselves.

The Irish, on the other hand, are an impartial people—if never heard an Irishman say a good thing of another."

THIS EXCUSE WENT.

The deep abiding faith of some of the old Irish fathers and mothers is pathetic and the sacrifices they are willing to make ought to put some of the later-day productions to blush. An old man named Feely died recently in California. He had reached his ninety-first year, and last Christmas, being unable to afford transportation, walked twenty-five miles to go to communion. Is there a vigorous young man in this city who would do that?
